Course Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to:

1. Explore and share their own culture and cultural identity while developing a capacity to be respectful of other cultures
2. Demonstrate an awareness of ethnocentric perception, biases, and preconceptions while analyzing cultural differences from an ethnorelative perspective and acceptance.
3. Recognize and articulate differences and commonalities in dominant cultural patterns, norms beliefs, and value systems; accepting that culture is learned, not innate.
4. Demonstrate increasing ability to communicate with persons who exhibit different worldviews, value systems and communicative styles.
5. Analyze and synthesize large amounts of disparate information from a variety of sources (including print, media, personal interviews and site visitations) to produce relevant, insightful presentations and papers.
