Course Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to:

1. Use advanced applications of specialized language to discuss poetry and fiction.
2. Demonstrate some advanced skills with traditional and contemporary forms of poetry and short fiction to emulate them or diverge from them in their own writing.
3. Write original poems and an original short story, or parts of stories, that demonstrate advanced awareness of language, content, and form.
4. Support classmates by providing sophisticated and helpful feedback during writing workshops
5. Revise an original poem or short story in progress in ways that demonstrate advanced skills.
6. Assemble a portfolio of original poetry and fiction, or create an individual creative project of similar scope, pre-arranged with the instructor, that demonstrate advanced skills in one or both genres.
