

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Students will have the ability to:

1. Identify verbally and in writing their personal perceptions of discipline, punishment and abuse then compare and contrast their perceptions with the practical, applied and/or legal definitions.
2. Demonstrate awareness of media coverage of topics related to child abuse, neglect and family protection and evaluate the underlying reasons the articles were written and published.
3. Demonstrate verbally and in writing an understanding of information related to child abuse, neglect and family protection.
4. Be familiar with the various agencies that provide services to victims of child abuse, neglect and/or family protection.
5. Demonstrate the ability to apply course content concepts including the ability to identify their own emotions; biases and subjective reactions then compare their subjective reactions while making objective assessments and recommendations.
6. Demonstrate the ability to share the knowledge they have gained with their classmates.

COURSE OUTLINE

